

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A process progress display device includes a stencil making block which displays a progress status of a stencil making process, a printing block which displays a progress status of a printing process, a stencil making stop bar which displays whether or not an entire process is to be stopped at an end of the stencil making process, and a printing stop bar which displays whether or not the entire process is to be stopped at an end of the printing process.